On the 24th of February while cutting timber at the mouth of Meeting Creek, Harry Brain, an Englishman, was instantly killed. The tree on which he and his partner were at work lodged in the branches of a dead poplar and while he was directing his friend how to save himself when the two trees should fall, the dead poplar suddenly broke off close to the ground, sprang to one side and in so doing struck Brain on the side of the head and body, crushing his skull smashing his shoulder, breaking one arm and several ribs. The young man was buried at Lacombe March 1st.

Lewis Fischer of section 18-41-17 Bell's ranch, is in town and reports stock looking fine. Fischer is preparing to make extensive improvements on his ranch property this season.

—Fedor Lukuta, the Galician farmer of Wostok, Beaver Creek, who was carried insensible to the general hospital yesterday morning from a fall down a long flight of stairs, recovered consciousness yesterday afternoon. His head was badly bruised and his right arm broken. He is getting along as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

—The Hudson's Bay stores yesterday shipped by express a parcel of underwear to fill an order received from Chicago, from a man who bought similar goods from the company three years ago when passing through Edmonton. He says that these goods are so far superior in wearing quality and value to anything that can be bought south of the boundary, that it will pay him to pay carriage from Edmonton, and the very big American protective duty. And still there are people on both sides of the line who say the consumer doesn't pay the duty. This man is under the impression that he does.

MORRISVILLE.
The 22nd of February being the last Sunday before Lent, our parish priest, Rev. Father Ethier, had made special preparations for the religious services of the day. The church was nicely decorated, and our choir executed with success the mass of Lambillotte. As invitations had been sent to outside friends, many were present from St. Pierre, St. Albert, and Edmonton. In the afternoon a small gathering took place—led by our pastor, Mr. Ethier, meeting was in good order. Supper was served in the school house by the ladies of this parish. The proceedings were brought to a close by an impromptu concert, in which took part Mrs. Gaudet, Miss Lalonde and M. M. Gibeault and Mr. M. M. Chagny played the piano while M. M. Leblanc, Lambert, Lessard, Gaudet, Savard and others sang some of their best selections. A collection was made. The feast brought $150, net, which amount will go to the benefit of the Morrisville school. Rev. Father Ethier is very thankful to all those who contributed to the success of this friendly and charitable affair.

THE C.N.R. STATION SITE.

The meeting of the business men of Edmonton which was called to consider the question of raising the money for the Canadian Northern railway site, took place yesterday at four o'clock in the council chamber. The meeting proved that Edmonton business men are alive to the interests of their town.

Mayor Short spoke first and gave an account of his mission to Winnipeg. He read a letter from Mr. C. C. Chipman, commissioner of the Hudson's Bay Company, offering the 22 acres for $25,000. A rebate of $5,000 will be given by the company and the C. N. R. Co. will give $5,000. This makes the cost of the land to the town of Edmonton, $15,000. Mr. Short explained that Mr. Gallagher and himself had had several interviews with the C. N. R. officials regarding the station site. The C. N. R. Co. have definitely promised in return for the site in Edmonton, to make Edmonton the only divisional point for work shops between Winnipeg and the coast.

Mr. Gallagher, who accompanied Mr. Short to Winnipeg, was then called upon, and in a few words recounted the remarks made by Mayor Short.

Mr. Jno. A. McDougall then addressed the meeting. He referred to the question under discussion as the most important that the Edmonton people had to face. The proper way to deal with it was in the same way as the bridge question was dealt with, i.e., to raise the fifteen thousand immediately, by note with the endorsement of business men of the town, pending the ratification of their action when the by-law will be submitted.

Mr. K. W. McKenzie asked if the C. N. R. required all the seventy acres at the one point. He was answered in the affirmative.

It was moved by J. H. McDougall, seconded by J. H. Gariepy, that the town raise $15,000 by a note endorsed by business men of the town. This motion was carried unanimously—there being not a single dissenting voice.

Mr. Kirkpatrick said that this method of raising the money would be perfectly satisfactory to the bank.

Mr. Short immediately called upon a note to be drawn up and signed. The following signatures were affixed at once: McDougall & Seccord, D. Ross, Gariepy & Lessard, C. Gallagher, A. E. Jackson, Wm. Short, W. H. Clarke, E. W. Grierson, Larue & Picard, W. T. Henry, K. W. MacKenzie, N. D. Beck, S. Nankin, H. C. Taylor, D. R. Fraser.

CURLING.
At the rink last night Campbell defeated Rae by a score of 11 to 7 for the Blue Ribbon cup.

The draws for to-night are: Emery vs. Bryan, for the Hudson Bay cup.

Kinnaird vs. Raymer, for the Hardisty cup.

Bellamy and MacKenzie should have previously played in the Blue Ribbon cup competition, and Stewart would then have played the winning rink to-night.

FRIDAY, MARCH 6, 1903.

THE GREAT WHEAT BELT.

An evidence of the favorable nature of the climate is the abundance and quality of the wild fruits. Strawberries, raspberries, choke cherries, black currants, blueberries, high and low bush cranberries, Saskatoon berries and many others grow in profusion, ensuring a succession of wild fruit from the strawberry season in July until the cranberry season in October.

Cultivated small fruits are grown without difficulty. Of these the red and white currants are the most hardy and prolific. But black currants, and the harder varieties of the cultivated strawberry, raspberry, gooseberry and other small fruits, do well, without extra care.

Garden flowers such as daisies, pansies, verbena, alopecurus, aster, etc., grow luxuriantly.

Several crab apple trees are in bearing in the district and there is every reason to believe that some of the hardy varieties of standard apples as well as cherries and plums will yet be grown.

In domestic animals hogs and cattle have the preference. The former somewhat in this land. The comparatively mild winters are of the greatest possible advantage in the rearing of both cattle and hogs, and comfortable housing can be provided at the smallest possible expense. The cattle have the run of the prairie in summer so that all the cost until the country becomes closely settled, is the hay which keeps them through the winter. Dairying is a most profitable branch of the cattle industry on account of the great flow of rich milk, due to the character of the pasture and the cool nights and generally favorable condition of summer. Milking cows, which will turn the wild grass of the prairie into an article with which store hills can be paid and credit established are the first necessity and the most profitable investment of the new settler. The pasture and the flow of milk are independent of frost, drought, rain or hail any of which may destroy the next year's crop. Therefore his first dependence should be on the sure support, natural pasture and cows. How important a part dairying has taken in farming operations in this district may be judged from the fact that one implement firm has already brought in this season a car load of cream separators for sale.

As feed is so important, free pasture and as long as hay can be produced nothing pays better than milk or beef. But as the country becomes fenced up and the settler has to depend on the product of his own land for his support, his attention naturally turns to hogs. No doubt it is a most successful market, but, as wheat growers the world over know to their cost, all wheat is not No. 1 every year. The hog is a means by which inferior wheat and the larger yielding, disease ridden and sprouting or sprouting wheat is made into a marketable product. The hog value is so great in proportion to weight that it will bear transportation around the world and still leave a good margin of profit to the producer, as wheat will not. On the outskirts of settlement cattle are the best stock, but in the closely occupied districts hogs are the chief dependence of the farmer.

Horses, do well, but can be reared so much more cheaply in the raising regions of the south that the tendency is to import rather than rear them. Farmers of established standing rear their own horses, and several horse ranches are being started in the outlying districts, but horse raising is not a leading feature in the Edmonton district as yet.

Sheep also occupy a minor position, not because they do not do well, but because farmers find that hogs and cattle meet the conditions of farm and market better. A drawback to the rearing of sheep is the coyotes, an animal resembling in some respects both the fox and the wolf, which seem to thrive particularly well in the partially settled districts.

Poultry of the various kinds does well, the milder winters being greatly in their favor as compared with those of the southeastern part of the Wheat Belt. Domestic chickens of many kinds flourish exceedingly and the export of eggs to the Kootenay district of British Columbia is an important trade. Dressed fowls are also exported to some extent. Turkeys are grown to an extent sufficient for the home demand, and the number is increasing. Domestic ducks and geese are also grown, but the wild ducks and geese to a great extent displace the demand for the domestic varieties.

The products of the farm are the same as those in the provinces of Ontario and Quebec in Canada and in the northern parts of the United States except that the side products which require intense and continued summer heat are not grown, while the main products which are the better of the longer and cooler summer season are grown in greater perfection.

A richly producing country must find a market for its products, or it is smothered in its own fat. But it does not smother for long. Given a sufficiently large assured production of food that the world needs and the market will find it, and transportation will be provided. The first requirement is that there shall be enough and to spare. In any part of a region of such extent and fertility as the Wheat Belt there can never be a question for any great length of time as to a market or as to facilities for reaching it.

The greater the production the more completely will the distance between producer and consumer be overcome. The production of the Saskatchewan valley for export is only beginning, and yet its wheat goes past through Fort William to Britain and west to central British Columbia. Its fat cattle and butter go east to Britain and west and north to the Yukon. Its fat hogs go to the Kootenay mines and its bacon to the same mines and down the Mackenzie river to the Arctic Ocean. Its oats have gone as far as Cape Breton to the east and to South Africa and Australia by way of the Pacific ports. Eggs, poultry, vegetables and hay find an active market in the Kootenay mines of British Columbia.

Edmonton is a hub of the long haul principle on the export of wheat eastward. The rates to Fort William, 1,500 miles, is 15 cents a bushel. From Brandon, Minn., 607 miles from Fort William, the rate is 9 cents a bushel but in practice, owing to the large proportions of the local milling industry in the Edmonton district and the demand for flour both at home and to the west and north, instead of the Edmonton farmer getting nine cents a bushel less for his wheat than the Manitoba farmer, he has for several years past been getting as much or a little more. This season the standard price for No. 2 hard at Edmonton has been 58 to 60 cents while the Winnipeg price was 74c. Owing to the extraordinary suitability of the soil and climate of the district to wheat plant, the crop is more prolific than wheat, and as the grain is not subject to damage by changes in temperature at the season of ripening it is the ideal crop for the new settlements, giving place to wheat as the settlement becomes older and closer and the rates on wheat decrease. As the proportion of new settlement is as yet much greater than the old, the average of oats is much greater than of wheat. This condition has been stimulated by the ready market which was found for the surplus oats of the district in the Kootenay mines of British Columbia.

ish Columbia. From 20 to 25 cents a bushel for oats which is the average for some years past is considered as good to the farmer as 50 to 60 cents a bushel for wheat. With the rapid increase of settlement in the district the production of oats has now outrun the demands of the Kootenay. The surplus of the heavy crop of 1901 found a ready market in eastern Canada and in the needs of the British army in South Africa. The price went up to 30 cents a bushel. The present price is 20 to 22 cents, and farmers are holding for sale to new settlers and to supply expected railroad construction work during the coming summer. The existence of a local oatmeal mill has something of the same effect on the price of oats as the local flour mills have on wheat. The price for milling oats is always two cents a bushel, over that for feed quality, and the demand is always good.

In view of the immense increase of production now in prospect as the result of the large influx of settlement, although the adjacent mining regions of British Columbia will take a portion of the excess grain and vegetables of the Wheat Belt, these will have to find their ultimate export market in the form of pork and beef. When turned into food of this condensed form the freight charge for reaching the seaboard or the consumer wherever he may be, is such a small proportion of the total value that it becomes a minor consideration. In the case of wheat the freight from Edmonton to say Montreal, is at least a third of the value at destination. On live cattle the freight is from a fourth to a fifth of final value, and on live hogs and bacon from a fifth to a tenth. The difference in price because of freight charges on live stock or cured meat between the eastern and western part of the Wheat Belt is so slight as not to be a matter for serious consideration when compared with the superior advantages for raising in the West. The fact that young cattle bred in eastern Canada are shipped by rail to the range country of Alberta to grow and fatten on the grass there before being shipped back through eastern Canada to the British market is evidence enough not only of the superior advantage of the west for cattle raising, but of the fact that distance from market is not a bar to profit. A feature of the case in marketing cattle from Alberta is that they can be taken from the pasture to market without intermediate fattening. This makes them better value to the grower than cattle of more southern localities. A large part of the surplus cattle of Alberta is shipped to the Kootenay, and some go to the Yukon, but the principal surplus is shipped direct to England.

Although the hog raising industry has reached larger proportions in the Edmonton district than in any other part of the Canadian west, the demand of the mining region of British Columbia has, not yet, been fully met. Live hogs, dressed hogs and bacon find a ready market in the Kootenay, and apparently with the increasing development of that region it will be many years before even the large production of the Edmonton district will have to seek elsewhere for an outlet. Three packing houses in Edmonton and Strathcona and one at Leduc, 20 miles south cure bacon for export on an extensive scale, and very large shipments of live and dressed hogs are also made. Instead of its westerly location being a disadvantage the Edmonton district has a very distinct advantage in reaching its best market for hogs and hog products because of this location. This winter, 1902-3, several large shipments of dressed hogs have been made to Australia by way of Vancouver.

Butter and eggs, which have become an important export of the Edmonton district, also find their market in the Kootenay, and the demand is always in excess of the supply.

In considering the question of a market for farm products it is in place to mention that a mountain region well timbered and highly mineralized, extending along the western side of the Rocky Mountains parallel to the grazing and wheat growing areas of Alberta and Athabasca, for a distance of a thousand miles. The mineral value of this vast region has been demonstrated. At the southern extremity it has been developed by railways, but the greater part of its extent remains to be developed. There is no such fortunate combination of valuable mineral territory lying so close alongside of a valuable agricultural region for hundreds of miles elsewhere in the known world; the one the complement of the other in all particular. The mountain region is full of minerals and timber but incapable of supplying itself with food. The prairie has an abundant food supply for which a market must be found, and needing the timber for its better development. Situated so close to a great mining region the Alberta farmer has a better market for his pork, butter, eggs and poultry than if he were located near an eastern city. The miner must buy everything. He wants it in large quantity and of the best quality and is able and willing to pay well for both.

COUNCIL MEETING.

The postponed regular meeting of the Edmonton town council was held in the council chamber last night at 8 o'clock. Mayor Short and Councilors Cushing, Ross, Helmick, Fraser, and Gallagher were present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted on motion of Cushing-Ross.

The following communications were read and disposed of as follows:

A letter from G. C. Chipman to the mayor granting a rebate of $5,000 on the price of the Hudson's Bay land purchased by the town for a railway site. The letter was referred to the town clerk to be officially acknowledged.

A letter from D. D. Mann to the mayor consenting on behalf of the C. N. R. to pay $5,000 towards obtaining the fifty-eight acres for a station site for the C. N. R. in the Hudson's Bay reserve. This letter was also referred to the town clerk to answer.

F. McNaughton, engineer, wrote the town council asking for an increase of salary from $80 a month to $100 a month. On motion of Gallagher-Ross the matter was referred to the fire, water and light committee.

Mr. Porter wrote on behalf of the Robt Engineering Co. that the repairs on the old engine would be completed as soon as he returned from Vancouver. On motion of Fraser-Gallagher this matter was left to the town clerk to deal with and report.

Sigler & Pickard wrote the council asking for sewer connections. The matter was referred to the engineer on motion of Ross-Fraser.

N. B. Peck, town inspector, asked the council for a raise of salary from $60 a month to $1,000 a year. The matter was referred to the fire, water and light committee on motion of Cushing-Gallagher.

The Great West Saddlery Co. asked to be allowed to furnish the harness for the fire brigade team, lately purchased. On motion of Ross and Gallagher it was decided to advertise for tenders to provide two sets of harness, i. e. one ordinary set and also one special set of fire brigade harness with fittings and hangings.

H. Pim on behalf of the Canadian General Electric Co. offered to quote prices on a fire alarm system. On motion of Fraser-Ross, this matter was referred to Councilor Cushing to examine into and report.

Petitions:

A petition was presented to the council asking that a sidewalk be built on the south side of Third street, the south side of Second street, River Lot 10, and on the east side of Fraser avenue, the expenditure for the same to be covered by a frontage tax. On motion of Ross and Gallagher-Ross this petition was referred to the board of works with power to act.

Another numerous signed petition was presented asking the council to take effective measures at once to have the pound by-law absolutely and strictly enforced. On motion of Gallagher-Fraser the pound keeper was instructed to revise the scale of fees and take such steps as to prohibit cattle from running at large in the town. Reports.

Mr. Kinnaird's report of the local improvements for 1902, special assessments, amounting to $5,811.66 was read and confirmed on motion of Gallagher and Fraser.
